

Matthew Osborn

Massage Therapist

Matthew didn't quite understand the possibilities that massage could offer until proudly serving with the United States Army for 12 years. Like most people, Matthew used his craft to help friends and loved ones, not realizing its full potential until later.

After leaving the service, Matthew spent some time in school and did security work in the Denver metro area. About one year later he decided put pen to paper and pursue a career as Licensed Massage Therapist by attending massage school. As a student at the Denver School of Massage, Matthew applied himself towards the more physical attributes of massage and began building what he wanted to become.

Presently, Matthew integrates deep tissue and structure bodywork for each individual. He wants to work with every one of his clients to give him or her the ability to be more mobile, less stressed and more relaxed in their day-to-day activities.
